Voice

James Baldwin was a uniquely prophetic voice in American letters. His brilliant and provocative essays made him the literary voice of the civil rights era and they continue to speak with powerful urgency to us today whether in the swirling debate over the Black Lives Matter movement or in the words of Raoul Peck's documentary I Am Not Your Negro, edited by Nobel laureate Toni Morrison. The Library of America's Collected Essays is the most comprehensive gathering of Baldwin's nonfiction ever published, with burning passion and jabbing epigrammatic wit. Baldwin fearlessly articulated issues of race and democracy and American identity in such famous essays as "The Harlem Ghetto," "Everybody's Protest Novel," "Many Thousands Gone," and "Stranger in the Village." Here are the complete texts of his early landmark collections, Notes of a Native Son and Nobody Knows My Name, which established him as an essential intellectual voice of his time. Fusing in unique fashion the personal, the literary, and the political, one writes, he stated out of one thing only one's own experience. Everything depends on how relentlessly one forces from this experience the last drop, sweet or bitter. It can possibly give, with singular eloquence and unblinking sharpness of observation, he lived up to his credo: I want to be an honest man and a good writer. The classic, The Fire Next Time, perhaps the most influential of his writings, is his most penetrating analysis of America's racial divide and an impassioned call to end the racial nightmare and change the history of the world. The later volumes, No Name in the Street and The Devil Finds Work, chart his continuing response to the social and political turbulence of his era and include his remarkable works of film criticism. A further 36 essays, nine of them previously uncollected, include some of Baldwin's earliest published writings as well as revealing later insights into the language of Shakespeare, the poetry of Langston Hughes, and the music of Earl Hines.

National bestseller, the book that galvanized the nation, gave voice to the emerging civil rights movement in the 1960s and still lights the way to understanding race in America today. The finest essay I've ever read. Ta-Nehisi Coates at once a powerful evocation of James Baldwin's early life in Harlem and a disturbing examination of the consequences of racial injustice. The book is an intensely personal and provocative document from the iconic author of If Beale Street Could Talk and Go Tell It on the Mountain. It consists of two letters written on the occasion of the centennial of the Emancipation Proclamation that
